

Spring 2009

Raisbeck & Reason is a highly-respected, family-owned Interior Design business based in the Cotswolds. We've worked in the interiors industry for many years and we place a high value on customer service, product excellence and great design.

Spring Interior Design Courses

Helen Bainbridge has worked as an Interior Designer and Art College Lecturer for the past twenty years. Projects have taken her across the U.K., working on diverse projects from corporate boardrooms to country manor houses. She has recently devised this series of courses to inspire and demystify the design process.

The Five Laws of Interior Design

A one day course designed to introduce the beginner to the basic rules of interior design.

1. Define the project brief – have a clear purpose and be aware of any problems.
2. Define the space – measure up and produce scale drawings.
3. Colour theory – keeping to and breaking the rules!
4. Finding products that fit the bill.
5. Create easy to understand visual boards and costings.

A comprehensive suppliers directory and full course notes are supplied.

Location: the delightful Russell's restaurant in Broadway.

Time: 9.30am - 5pm Wednesday the 21st of January

A two course lunch and refreshments are included.

Parking is available.

Course Fee: £125

Applying the Five Laws

A two day course where you can bring your own project along and complete it under the guidance of a professional. It is recommended that you attend the one day "Five Laws" course first.

A comprehensive suppliers directory and full course notes are supplied.

Location: the delightful Russell's restaurant in Broadway.

Time: 9.30am - 5pm. Tuesday & Wednesday the 27th & 28th of January

A two course lunch and refreshments are included.

Parking is available.

Course Fee: £220

Colour Intensive

A comprehensive one day course looking at colour theory, psychology, pattern and texture. While the course is primarily aimed at Interior Designers, it is also suitable for budding artists. We will be doing lots of practical exercises to increase your confidence in using and mixing colour. It's our intention that you'll never look at colour in quite the same way again! This course is suitable for beginners, but aims to impart exhaustive information and valuable exercises that are also suitable for more experienced students. A comprehensive suppliers directory and full course notes are supplied.

Location: the delightful Russell's restaurant in Broadway.

Time: 9.30am - 5pm. Tuesday the 3rd of February.

A two course lunch and refreshments are included.

Parking is available.

Course Fee: £125
